What is the Academy?

The Academy of Child and Adolescent Health (ACAHA) promotes the health and wellbeing of every newborn, child and young person

History of the ACAHA

Founded in 2016, the Academy of Child and Adolescent Health (ACAHA) is a national not-for-profit organisation dedicated to improving the health and wellbeing of infants, children, adolescents, and young people.

ACAHA brings together healthcare professionals, educators, researchers, and advocates from across Australia who share a commitment to advancing child and adolescent health. Through collaboration, education, advocacy, and innovation, ACAHA supports those working to deliver the best possible outcomes for children and young people.

With a growing multidisciplinary membership, ACAHA continues to foster connections, share knowledge, and champion the health needs of future generations.

The Academy aims to achieve this by serving as:

1

A leading organisation for child and adolescent healthcare professionals in our region to network and collaborate.

2

A vehicle for mentoring opportunities and research links as well as for best practice education and training.

3

An innovative platform for healthcare professionals to advocate for the health and wellbeing of children and adolescents in our region.

THE ACAH ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Since its inaugural conference in Melbourne in 2018, the Academy of Child and Adolescent Health has successfully delivered national conferences in Adelaide, Sydney, Melbourne, and Darwin, bringing together delegates from across Australia and internationally.

Join us in 2027 for the Academy of Child and Adolescent Health Conference, where a diverse community of professionals will come together around a shared vision: improving the health and wellbeing of every newborn, child, and young person so they can reach their full potential.

Grounded in collaboration and driven by purpose, this year's theme, "A Shared Vision," reflects a collective commitment to high-quality, evidence-based care across disciplines and settings. The conference will highlight innovative approaches to clinical practice and research, while strengthening the connections between professionals, services, and communities that are essential for meaningful, lasting impact.

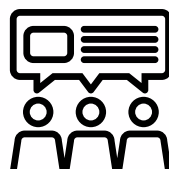

GOAL

To inspire, educate, and connect healthcare professionals, researchers, educators, and students committed to improving child and adolescent health.

TARGET AUDIENCE

A multidisciplinary audience of paediatricians, nurses, allied health professionals, trainees, researchers, educators, public health professionals, and students from across Australia.

OPPORTUNITIES

Engaging plenary sessions, expert keynote speakers, interactive workshops, practical skills sessions, trainee and student streams, networking events, and opportunities to collaborate with leaders in child and adolescent health.

Located in the heart of Sydney at the University of Technology Sydney (UTS) campus, Aerial Function Centre is an award-winning conference and events venue renowned for its stunning rooftop setting, modern facilities and panoramic views of the Sydney skyline and Darling Harbour.

Offering flexible, pillarless event spaces accommodating up to 450 delegates, Aerial is ideally suited to conferences, exhibitions, workshops, networking events and gala functions. The venue features multiple configurable function rooms, expansive outdoor terraces, state-of-the-art audiovisual capabilities and premium catering services, providing a seamless experience for organisers and delegates alike.

Conveniently located within walking distance of Central Station and Sydney's major accommodation precincts, Aerial combines accessibility, flexibility and exceptional event delivery, making it an ideal venue for national conferences and professional gatherings.

For ACAH 2027, Aerial provides a vibrant and contemporary setting that supports collaboration, learning and connection, offering delegates a memorable conference experience in the heart of Sydney.
